The balance beam trail is a great feature to any playground. It can be used to link play structures and playground equipment together and is a really fun, low risk way to practise key balancing skills. With a change of direction and an unlimited length this versatile piece of playground equipment has great potential at fantastic value. A great addition to any wooden trim trail for an exciting and natural playground.

Wooden balance beams are well known as an important piece of playground equipment for physical development of nursery children and early years. The balance beams can also be used as informal seating or demarcation of play zones.
